The MŪ191 chair investigates the use of aluminium sections reduced to their minimal structural requirements to benefit from the lightness of the material. Drawing on the original design of the MŪVEK table leg and the elegance of precedents such as Gio Ponti's Superleggera, this versatile chair expresses its tenuous structural connections.

PRODUCTION PROCESS
The aluminium parts of the MŪ191 chair are laser-cut from aluminium sheets. The pieces are carefully hand-welded and hand-finished by one craftsman over six continuous working hours. The assembled chair is tested for stability and then powder coated. The finished product is handed over to a leather artisan, who painstakingly hand-stitches the leather seat and backrest to the chair.
